

Accessible Communication Devices / Supports at HDSHRC

Image	Name	Description
	Pocket Talkers	Personal hardwired amplifiers that amplify sounds closest to the listener while reducing background noise.
	Voice Amplifiers	A device that amplifies or increases the volume of the voice of an individual.
	Electrolarynx	A medical device used to produce clearer speech by those who have lost their original voicebox.
How are you feeling right now? 	Communication Books / Boards / Wallets	Consist of photographs, symbols, and/or words/phrases to address vocabulary needs in a visual format.

Wallet Cards

Small versions of a communication board, or a sentence that describes how to best communicate with a person.

iPads

Handheld electronic displays that can produce spoken words (from typed text) or produce and display communication boards.